Patient transfers:
It's how we protect your health

At Northwell Health, we're here to help New Yorkers get through anything, including the coronavirus. That's why we instituted a formal patient transfer policy to minimize exposure and keep people healthy.

Our transfer policy ensures that all people who are admitted into our hospitals are treated in optimal locations throughout our health system. This means we can continue to safely treat you and your loved ones.

We have a network of 23 outstanding hospitals that all deliver the highest quality care— so regardless of where you are transferred, you can be sure you're in the right place.
